Chinna Muthyalu is a constable from the Mumbai police. He is brought to village by his father for a wedding. He is a rascally fellow who cheats his father for his birthday, leaves the country in search of his brother, uses his father's money to gamble and play in bars. Chinna finds a job in a shop owned by Sreenath. Gopal is the owner's son. He is a soft-spoken man who treats his employees with dignity. The shop owner's wife, Sukanya, is the police officer's lover. She refuses to sleep with Chinna. Sreenath, who is secretly after her heart, is in love with Sukanya. Uthamanathan, a womanizer, is a bane of the village. He seduces and loves the wife of everyone he meets. He dies when he tries to commit suicide because he can't live with his selfish ways. He was married thrice. The eldest of his three wives was killed by his second wife, who was jealous of the attention he paid to the first one. The second one was not only not happy, but also became quite bitter. So Uthamanathan went on to marry the third time. The story focuses on how Uthamanathan's third wife, who stayed by his side till his last breath, is being made to live with the shame of being his third wife. Uthamanathan was not only a philanderer, but also a con artist. He would make false statements, fake his address and resort to other tricks to fool people. This was revealed at the end of the movie when the film-maker showed that Uthamanathan is actually alive. The wife who he died at the end, turns out to be his third wife and is the same woman who stayed by his side till the very end of his life. The real love story of the movie is between Chinna and Sukanya. When the movie starts, Chinna and Sukanya are at loggerheads. Chinna wants to steal her away from Sreenath. Sukanya refuses to marry Sreenath. But Sukanya keeps losing the battle and Sreenath wins her heart. Chinna is a very good guy when he is in love. It is when he has lost his love that he becomes a villain. Chinna and Sreenath are friends. Sreenath tells Chinna that he is as good as Chinna is
