
Microsoft Toolkit V2.4.1 Windows 8 And Office 2013 Activator

A: MFC 2.0 is really Windows 1.0, they totally reimplemented the UI and added a new version number. There's a bunch of good details at Windows and MFC - but basically it's a new "Windows" with new programming paradigms, and not backward compatible. You have to compile your app for MFC 2.0, then it will build on Windows 7 and Windows 8 without a problem. //
