How do I fix this? A: It's a Google Translate bug. Re-translate your page by yourself using Google Translate, then you will get the same result. You can either use Google Translate for your website or let your users do it themselves. Google Translate has been updated to remove the ability to embed translated page content from the web. This behavior is a temporary feature. We're working to change this behavior in the next release. In the meantime, please remove the Google Translate widget from your site. The United States government detained Al-Hamoudi and charged him under the National Defense Authorization Act, a law passed by Congress which allows for the indefinite military detention of “a person who was part of or substantially supported al-Qaeda, the Taliban, or associated forces that are engaged in hostilities against the United States or its coalition partners.” As the New York Times noted, Al-Hamoudi’s lawyers have filed a habeas petition in U.S. District Court arguing that Al-Hamoudi’s detention is unlawful and violates the Constitution. In addition to being in violation of the Constitution, Al-Hamoudi’s treatment during his detention is “cruel, inhuman and degrading,” the Center for Constitutional Rights (CCR) and the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) have written in a letter to the Government Accountability Office (GAO).
