Transcription MR. GRAY: Today is a day that will live in infamy. The coward who was in the white house, lied on national TV, about an assassination, which was deliberate, an orchestrated assassination with the imprimatur of the federal government, and he's lying about the assassination. He says, "I didn't see him killed." The woman who stood beside him, while they were lying, a murderer, was standing next to him, and she's saying, "Yeah, I saw it. Yeah, I watched it." And they did it. That's what he says. MR. BLITZER: Did the President say he had confidence in the Attorney General? MR. GRAY: I don't know. MR. BLITZER: You don't know? MR. GRAY: I'm just trying to say, it was a bad day. MR. BLITZER: All right. Were you on TV? I was not there. I was, as they say, tuned in, but was not there when it happened. But my understanding is you said that that was a bad day? MR. GRAY: It was a very sad day. It was the betrayal of this country by the man who was president, and by the woman who is, as they say, a murderer. MR. BLITZER: And they have publicly and with great passion, accused this president of plotting to kill a guy. Is it just a coincidence that you all have just come out? MR. GRAY: Yeah, well, they're all convicted. The jury decided. MR. BLITZER: Yes, but your story was in, it seemed to me, with your attorney, and it was your attorney who said the president... MR. GRAY: Right. MR. BLITZER:...was the guy who planned to kill this guy. Was that your understanding? MR. GRAY: I don't know who came up with that, but I'm not going to say that. MR. BLITZER: You are sure that the president
