Analog Way (TetraVIOTM), a manufacturer of digital mixers designed for use with audio and video equipment, introduces a new device that allows for improved sound quality from both stereo and multi-channel audio. The Analog Way TetraVIOTM analog mixer features exceptionally low noise and signal distortion, allowing it to be used with any audio equipment with great success. The Analog Way TetraVIOTM analog mixer features a unique VIA®V-Amp chip that delivers amazingly clear and natural sound. In addition, the mixer's microphone input can pick up even the softest sounds, and the high-quality preamps have extremely low distortion and noise. The Analog Way TetraVIOTM differs from many professional mixers in the lack of a digital effects processor. But this does not mean that this mixer does not have built-in reverb, and in general, it has all the advantages of analog technology. The mixer is equipped with an 8-channel stereo mixer as well as one stereo input. All channels are equipped with microphone preamps, which use the finest operational amplifiers to make the sound as clear and natural as possible.
