Layers The Layers panel is where you begin your work. You can use this panel to move, copy, and delete layers. You can also remove layers. Layers can be grouped. You can create a new layer and move it to the top, or you can duplicate a layer and move it to the bottom.

Layers are perhaps the best feature of all because they make it possible to move, copy, delete, and group pixels and create unlimited layers. It's also possible to select a group of pixels in a layer and edit them together. In other words, a group is a collection of pixels. Each individual pixel on the Layers panel represents a small part of the entire image on the canvas. The ability to modify each pixel like a small group is the basis of what makes Photoshop one of the most powerful tools on the planet. For web designers and marketers, Photoshop is the equivalent to a paintbrush in a pot of paint. You modify the pixels to produce a final image.

Q: Limiting build times I have a question regarding the Windows Team Foundation Server Build Process. When I set a maximum time of the build it seems to be very limiting and I have the following exception when that time is reached: The TFS InvokeTemplate has returned an error. Detailed information is provided in the QueryResults property. The build works fine when the time is not set or a much lower value than the actual time. Is there a way to get around this problem? A: What TFS version? If you're talking about 2008, you may find that the build template works more flexibly. If you're talking about TFS 2010, it is designed for much more controlled builds. all: Demo TLD Demo: $(DEMO_TLD_RULES) $(GEN) $(GEN)_$(PROTO_RE) > $@.proto $(GEN) $(GEN)_$(PROTO_HDR) >> $@.proto $(DEMO_TLD_RULES): $(TEMPLATE_FILES) Makefile $(COMPILER) $
