Alternatives to Photoshop Initially, Adobe Photoshop was the only graphics software on the market, so the line between graphic design programs and graphic-composition programs was blurred. However, as other software companies developed their own image-processing programs, the division has become more clear. Fortunately, both types of programs exist. There is a wide range of programs out there that overlap both graphic design and image manipulation. In fact, many graphic designers use image-processing programs to manipulate the image. If you're serious about Photoshop, there are graphic design programs that have similar features. However, they don't offer the layered editing that Photoshop offers. If you do a fair amount of graphic design in Photoshop, you may be best served with a program that gives you access to the Photoshop layers. On the other hand, if you do all your own graphic design, you may be better off with a program that offers features more similar to what you're used to with Photoshop. ## Managing Files and Folders The easiest way to get familiar with a computer is to look around it — especially when you're using the same computer for more than one thing. After all, most software companies and programmers design the programs to be used in the same way, so you need to get familiar with the way these programs work. In this book, I use the words \_files\_ and \_folders\_ interchangeably. It doesn't really matter which one you use when talking about operating systems, because they're both synonyms and mean the same thing. When you're on a computer, you store all the information that you create in files and folders. In most computer programs, you can access the files and folders from the menus. When the screen layout changes, the Q: Calculating the integral  $\int_0^{\infty} \frac{x^{\alpha-1}}{\sqrt{1+x^{\alpha}}} dx$  I need to calculate this integral  $\int_0^{\infty} \frac{x^{\alpha-1}}{\sqrt{1+x^{\alpha}}} dx$  for  $0 < \alpha < 1$ ; How is the work done by an object whose velocity is increasing linearly? "Suppose the velocity of an object is increasing linearly starting from zero. How is the work being done by that object in this case?" "My answer: Work done is  $Q=v \cdot x$  where  $Q$  is the work and  $v$  is the velocity of the object" A: One work against the constant force  $SFS = \text{Linear rate} \times \text{time}$  is  $SF \cdot \Delta t = WS$ . So that's how much energy was transferred to the object.
