Scan using batch mode You can automate the process for scanning multiple files. You can even use a variable to set the number of pages to be scanned. Scan several pages of a book Instead of a variable, you can select the last pages of a book. Scan the last pages of a book If you don't need to digitize the whole book but only a few pages, you can select the last pages from the book before. Q: Create fixed size array with a custom constructor in Javascript? Is it possible to create an array that has a fixed size (i.e. 20) and the array values are inputted via a constructor function? The problem is solved (sort of) with the following two changes: The file ctrl-v.sh in the second solution already is executable. It is just that when you execute it, it won't do anything. So you have to first execute it and then manually delete it. The ctrl-v.sh file uses a system-wide service, google-chrome-stable. The ctrl-v.sh file is in no way a shortcut to the ctrl-v functionality, like stated in [1] and [2]. This difference is important, especially for me since I can't use ctrl-v to delete line breaks in Chrome (I tried it with Firefox and it worked). You are using an older, unsupported browser.
