Morphology and potential pathogenicity of the hypopharyngeal region of a manatee (Trichechus manatus latirostris, 1758) in Rio Grande do Sul State, Brazil. The aim of the present study was to investigate the presence of microorganisms in the hypopharyngeal region of the manatee Trichechus manatus latirostris in the Rio Grande do Sul State, Brazil. The absence of an animal in captivity or in a semi-captivity environment may be a factor that can lead to anthropophilic behavior, known as captive hunting. Forty samples were obtained from the hypopharyngeal region of captive manatees and submitted to Gram and Ziehl-Neelsen stains for bacterial growth and fungal identification. Bacterial growth was detected in 90.0% (36/40) and fungal growth was observed in 92.5% (37/40) of the samples. The predominant bacterial pathogens were Plot After a holdup, a group of masked men try to escape from the officers. When they arrive at the abandoned farm, they find an unsuspecting couple who were partying there the night before. While being handcuffed, one of the gunmen hears the sound of a car on the distant road and begins to panic. Even so, the couple manage to slip away. The next morning the gang leader finds out the whereabouts of the couple and decides that they are the ones he wants to kill. As he and his men are leaving, the couple arrives at the farm. All the gang leader's men have been killed by the couple. In order to stop the gang leader and his men from reaching the farm, the couple lays down a barrier on the road. However, the gang leader is still able to reach the farm. The couple find several other people who had been at the party the night before. The last man and woman are released, while the couple tell them that the gang leader has escaped and also that there is one more of his men who's alive and in the house. The gang leader enters the house and shoots and kills the husband and the girlfriend, and is about to attack the couple when they knock him out with a fireplace poker. In the following struggle, the wife escapes, still in her wedding gown. She runs to the road, but the gang leader is waiting for her there. As she is running across the road, a car takes the gang leader, the wife, and the remaining gang member by surprise.
