Q: Inserting data from array into database I need to be able to take a set of data from an array that I have and use it to insert into the database. I'm trying to use the following code, but I just get a blank page when I go to the URL. if ($_POST['submit']) { $service_name = $_POST['service_name']; $service_desc = $_POST['service_desc']; $service_area = $_POST['service_area']; $service_city = $_POST['service_city']; $service_prov = $_POST['service_prov']; $service_date = $_POST['service_date']; $service_time = $_POST['service_time']; $service_person = $_POST['service_person']; $service_status = $_POST['service_status']; $service_note = $_POST['service_note']; $insert_query = "INSERT INTO `new_listing`(`service_name`, `service_desc`, `service_area`, `service_city`, `service_prov`, `service_date`, `service_time`, `service_person`, `service_status`, `service_note`) VALUES ('$service_name', '$service_desc', '$service_area', '$service_city', '$service_prov', '$service_date', '$service_time', '$service_person', '$service_status', '$service_note')"; if ($con->query($insert_query) === TRUE) { echo "New record created successfully"; } else { echo "Error: ". $con->error; } $con->close(); } A: I am thinking you need to format your code a bit more. You don't need to call php_error_docref() in order to view your errors. Make sure to put the insert query in single quotes in order to prevent variables from being treated as SQL

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop 2021 (Version 22.4.3)?

Cell cycle-dependent phosphorylation of the gamma-aminobutyric acid type B receptor subunit-associated protein. Recently, a protein co-precipitated with the gamma-aminobutyric acid type B receptor (GABA(B)) from neuronal cell lines with low (G418) and high (neuroblastoma) expression of GABA(B) receptors has been described [Gu et al. (1994) Cell 76, 477-489]. This novel protein, named GABA(B) receptor associated protein (GABARAP), was characterized as a neuroendocrine marker, its mRNA expression being developmentally regulated. It is a member of a novel protein family which includes GABARAP, a phosphoprotein and an integral transmembrane protein of the endosomal system. Here we show that the GABARAP protein is phosphorylated in a cell cycle-dependent manner. Furthermore, GABARAP is associated with the GABA(B) receptor in vivo, and we provide evidence that the function of the GABARAP protein is linked to the GABA(B) receptor.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device having a circuit composed of a thin film transistor (hereinafter referred to as a TFT) formed on a substrate, and more particularly to a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device having a TFT of which the semiconductor region is formed over an insulating surface. 2. Description of the Related Art In recent years, a technique for forming a thin film transistor (TFT) by using a semiconductor thin film (with a thickness of about several to several hundreds nm) formed over a substrate having an insulating surface has attracted attention. The thin film transistor has been widely applied to electronic devices such as ICs or electro-optical devices, and has been developed particularly as a switching element for display devices. Liquid crystal display devices, which are one of the most typical examples of image display devices, have been rapidly developed as image display devices for note-type personal computers or personal digital assistants, because they have characteristics such as lightweight, low power consumption, and superior structural design. The market for liquid crystal display devices is expanding rapidly. For example, liquid crystal television sets, which are generally used as display devices for large-scale public information communication means, are spreading rapidly, and their demand is increasing. In order to realize low power consumption and high
