Q: How to set a button on title bar? I use MyApp.app to test my app.I want to set a button on title bar and be notified when the app starts.I can not get it to work.Can someone help? A: Method 1: You can set a button on the title bar to be notified when the app launches. You can add a button to your app's resource.xib file, creating the control programmatically with code. Here is an article by John Mamakos. It goes over the basics and gives you the sample code. You should find that you are able to add the button to the window. Even though you add the button to the UI window, it is actually a subclass of NSWindow. So you can access all the features you normally would, for example, to create a button. - (IBAction)clickButton:(id)sender { NSString *title = [[NSString alloc] initWithFormat: @"%@ - Hello World!", @"My App"]; NSRect titleFrame = NSMakeRect(0, 0, 200, 32); NSView *contentView = [[NSView alloc] initWithFrame:titleFrame]; NSButton *button = [NSButton buttonWithTitle:@"Click Me!"
