Q: Ask someone to explain "is this men's clothing" questions One could answer the questions with three different answers : People's clothing Women's clothing Men's accessories But there is a problem: some people uses it to express that he likes the concept of "women's clothing", and not just "women's clothing". Should we close such questions as "primarily opinion based" or should we wait till a rule comes along that handle these kind of questions? A: I think it'd be best to simply remove this tag, at least from the close-voters. Men's clothing is a broad topic. I can't imagine why one would not see things as belonging to "women's clothing", from pants to underwear. We can still keep the tag on questions with specific focus, so that people that find a certain type of question interesting can easily access it. Links Sunday, April 6, 2011 Cold Treatment I'm going to tell you all a little secret. I've been doing a cold treatment recently. And, I've been doing that for about a month. First off, let me preface it with saying, I'm a skeptic, so I tend to think "Gee, that might not do anything." But for some reason, I believe in it. I've had it before, so I know what to do and what not to do. It makes sense to me. The first thing I did was drink 2 glasses of water every day. I did it mostly because I was bored. Next I started drinking lots of green tea. I just like the taste. And, as you all know, it promotes good health. Then I got a cold treatment. I went to Bed Bath and Beyond, and they had the strips. They were $7.99. I bought three. I put one in the refrigerator, and used the other two to cover my cat. She's had two cataract surgeries, and I thought the cold treatment might heal the problem. I also bought the Fuzzy Cold and Rub. It says to use it on babies, or anyone with sore or cracked skin, so I figured, what the hell? I did the full application. It was kind of like pulling a bandaid off of a really little child. As soon as I did it, the cat started to perk up. I mean

Q: Find the indices of the maximum of the ligne 2 in each element of the matrix I am trying to find the indices of the maximum of the ligne 2 in each element of the matrix. In this case, we have as input matrix: 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 0 1 1 0 1 1 0 1 1 0 The result we are looking for would be: x = 2 4 2 5 My code is: [nComp,m,nRows]=size(m); for i = 1:m temp = m(i,:); maxi = max(temp); idx=find(maxi==2); x(idx,i) = i; end But the result is: x = 1 4 2 5 A: You are setting x equal to 1 for the index of the maxima. If you instead wanted to set the maximum element index to 1, you would need to only set x equal to 1 for the maxima: maxi = max(temp); idx=find(maxi==2); x(idx) = 1; This will give you the result of: x = 2 4 2 5 Just a nitpick: The upper left corner of x should be zero, not 1. Looks like I'm going to have to add another vote for that "All about politics and politicians except about military and homefront life" disclaimer. here you go too Maybe it's because I was a Mom of three and then a Wife of a few before that...I lost a couple in the last years to the "unfair" system. I'm sorry I don't have a picture for you. I wish I did.
