Q: How to reduce the time to draw a plot in R? I have an nr of points that I need to plot in R and it takes a lot of time to do it, I want to know how to reduce the time or to speed it up. I have tried this: png(filename = "Fig-L3-L1-1.png", units = 'in', width = 600, height = 600, res = 1000) par(mfrow = c(1, 2)) plot(x1, y1, xlim = c(0, 12), ylim = c(0, 1), type = 'n', axes = T, xaxt = 'n', ann = F) but it turns out that the plot is bigger than 600 in the png... I don't really know why, but what's my problem? This is how I download the data:

High spatial and temporal resolution imaging of copper in single metallothionein molecules in mouse liver by scanning transmission electron microscopy. We present high resolution images of the sub-microscopic distribution of copper in mice liver. Images were obtained in single transmission electron microscopy (TEM) movies using the recently described technique, X-ray fluorescence tomography (XRT), which combines X-ray microscopy with two-dimensional electron microscopy (2D-E). TEM movies were collected in two scan directions, either in the axial direction (A direction) or in the circumferential direction (C direction), resulting in complete 3D images. Copper distribution was mapped in the tomograms in both directions. The smaller C-directional images showed two features: (i) differences in the distribution of copper across the polyhedral crystals in the metallothionein (MT) molecules, and (ii) copper accumulation at the higher-density edges of the crystals. The larger A-directional images showed variations in the distribution of copper in the molecules and in the accumulated copper in the crystals. We also investigated the XRT 3D approach in terms of sample preparation. We used low-dose TEM (instead of conventional high-dose TEM) to reduce the radiation damage to the biological sample. As expected, the lower dose resulted in reduced elemental composition of the images in 2D and 3D and in reduced resolution of the images, but it improved the signal-to-noise ratio in the 2D images. Finally, we show that XRT 3D image analysis is possible at higher sample thicknesses than the current limitation for conventional TEM. This study demonstrates that XRT 3D is applicable for imaging the 3D sub-microscopic distribution of a wide range of trace metals in biological samples, and in particular, we provide high resolution 3D images of copper distribution within single MT molecules. i s p r o b o f s e q u e n c e e e ? 3 / 5 5 W h a t i s p r o b o f s e q u e n c e n i i w h
